AAP offers clinical guidance on numerous topics during COVID-19, including:

- Newborn Care: Guidance for the care of infants whose mothers have suspected or confirmed COVID-19. Includes precautions for birth attendants, rooming-in, breastfeeding, testing, neonatal intensive care, visitation and hospital discharge.
- Newborn Screening During the COVID-19 Pandemic: Guidance recommending that pediatricians continue to follow federal and state guidelines on newborn bloodspot screening, newborn hearing screening, and critical congenital heart disease screening.

AAP campaign urges parents to #CallYourPediatrician

Using humor and real-world conversations, the American Academy of Pediatrics has launched the #CallYourPediatrician campaign, which aims to reach parents with timely reminders that going to the pediatrician, even during COVID-19, is important and safe. Recent data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) have confirmed that children and adolescents are missing important health visits and immunizations. Vaccination rates have dropped to dangerously low levels during this pandemic, and overall office visits are down.

Join the #CallYourPediatrician digital campaign to urge parents to make appointments for well-child visits, immunizations, and other health care concerns. A toolkit on AAP.org offers downloadable images, videos and sample social media posts. Please share these messages on your social media in your communities to remind families to #CallYourPediatrician.
